Local Grant Boosts Nutrition Access for Buffalo's Children

More children in Johnson County will have access to nourishing food, thanks in part to a generous $5,000 grant from the Hazel Patterson Fund of the Wyoming Community Foundation.

Johnson County Friends Feeding Friends (JC-FFF) is a nonprofit dedicated to providing food to children throughout Johnson County. The organization's vision is simple and powerful: no hungry child in Johnson County. This grant will support JC-FFF's ongoing programs and help expand outreach as community needs grow.

"This grant couldn't have come at a better time," said Heather Gorman Haas, Program Administrator for JC-FFF. "We are seeing increased demand for our services, and these funds allow us to remain flexible and responsive to our community's evolving needs."
